LONDON, May 13.

Answer from the Court of Great Britain to the Declaration of the Empress of Russia, sent to the British Envoy at Petersburg, April 13, 1780.

DURING the course of the war, wherein his Britannic Majesty finds himself engaged through the unprovoked aggression of France and Spain, he hath constantly manifested his sentiments of justice, equity, and moderation, in every part of his conduct. His Majesty hath acted towards friendly and neutral powers according to their own procedure respecting Great Britain, and conformable to the clearest principles generally acknowledged as the laws of nations, being the only law between powers where no treaties subsist, and agreeable to the tenor of his different engagements with other powers; those engagements have altered this primitive law, by mutual stipulations, proportioned to the will and convenience of the contracting parties.

"Strongly attached to her Majesty of all the Russias by the tie of reciprocal friendship and common interest, the King, from the commencement of those troubles, gave the most precise orders respecting the flag of her Imperial Majesty, and the commerce of her subjects, agreeable to the law of nations, and the tenor of the engagements stipulated by his treaty of commerce with her, and to which he shall adhere with the most scrupulous exactness.

"The orders to this intent have been renewed, and the utmost care will be taken for their strictest execution.

"It may be presumed, not the least irregularity will happen, but in case of any infringement contrary to these repeated orders taking place, the Court of Admiralty, which in this, like all other countries, are established to take cognizance of such matters, and in all cases to judge solely by the laws of nations, and by the specific stipulations of different treaties, will redress every hardship in so equitable a manner, that her Imperial Majesty shall be perfectly satisfied, and acknowledge a like spirit of justice which she herself possesses."

Lord North's friends are apprehensive of his having a dropsy; his physicians having at least declared that the rotundity of his belly "has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished." But his Lordship, with the same indifference that he acts towards the state, though he is forced to admit the principle, takes no manner of thought about the mode of reducing it.

A letter from Paris says, the troops designed for the field are in motion, in number upwards of 100,000, with very formidable trains of artillery; that the number designed for the grand expedition will consist of about 60,000; M^{rs}. M^{rs}chalski commands the whole at present, but M. D'Esling will assume the command after embarkation.

BOSTON, July 17.

Extract of a letter from a principal officer at New Port, to his friend in this town, dated July 13.

I WISH you were here--you would be delighted--the harbour affords a most pleasing appearance; seven French ships of the line (the first division) from 80 to 64 guns, a hospital ship of 64 guns, mounted with 40, and a number of transports. You know I was always exceedingly fond of our allies; but I assure you I never was more pleased than at present, with the officers of the fleet and army. The last evening the town was illuminated, and joy displayed in every countenance friendly to our great and good cause. The General and Commodore are most amiable in their appearance and behaviour, and at once display the officer and the gentleman. Indeed, it seems this character is applicable to the whole of the officers, from the highest to the lowest. There are many officers of the best families in France in this army. They left their country, ease, affluence, and friends, to support our cause; every attention is due to them. I am determined they shall have mine, and with great pleasure."

PHILADELPHIA, August 2.

BY accounts from S. Eustatius we learn, that about the 12th ult. the French and Spanish fleet being 33 or 34 ships of the line, besides frigates, transports, &c. with 15 or 20,000 land forces on board, sailed from Martinico, and went leeward; what island will feel their weight is still a secret; but by many in the West Indies it is thought Jamaica will be the place, where they will be joined by Admiral Picquet, who is cruising off there with four ships. On the other hand it is said Commodore Walsingham with four, some say six ships, and about 3000 troops are arrived in the West Indies from England, which when joined with Adm. Rodney and Gen. Vaughan who are at St. Lucia, will make the British fleet about 23 or 24 ships, by replacing those the French have rendered useless, as appears by the Admiral's letter, and perhaps enable him to go on some petty expedition, if they have provision enough, which is said to be very scarce in the English islands as well as aboard their fleet.

WILLIAMSBURG, AUG. 19.

THE following vessels, mostly laden with tobacco, bound to France and the West Indies, have been lately taken in and near Chesapeake, and carried to New York, viz.

On the 28th ult. His Excellency General Washington, with the main body of the American army under his immediate command, crossed Hudson's river. It is said an important enterprise is on the eve of being undertaken by that renowned commander.

His Excellency General Washington hath made a fresh requisition to the state of Pennsylvania for 3500 men, to be sent forward, towards Hudson river, with all possible expedition.

It is reported that 15,000 New England militia have taken the field, and are on their march to Rhode Island, in order to co-operate with the French troops, under the command of Count Rochambeau.

Extract of a letter from Halifax, North Carolina, to a Gentleman in this city, dated August 12, 1780.

"General Gates is in possession of Camden by this time, I imagine, as he was near that place when Capt. Watts left him advancing, and the enemy retreating, and hope shortly we shall be near Charlestown. We have had several skirmishes with the enemy, and have always been successful. We hear that there has been an embarkation lately from Charlestown of 1000 men for New York; I fancy they begin to be fearful of the French fleet attacking that place."

The first of May last died at Portsmouth, Sir Charles Hardy. The corpse was escorted through the town by the senior and junior officers, and then put into a barge in order to be carried to Rawlins, in Oxfordshire, for interment.

TO be sold to the highest bidder, for ready money, at Milner's, on Thursday the 7th of September next, a BOAT just launched, forty-six feet straight rabbit, eighteen feet beam, and eight feet hold, built on the new construction.

THE AUDITORS of PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

give this public notice to all delinquent County Lieutenants, Commanding Officers of Militia, and other persons, who have received sums of money for enlisting soldiers, sailors, and marines, particularly under an act of Assembly passed in the year 1778, intituled "An act for speedily recruiting the Virginia regiments on Continental establishment," all Naval Officers, Escheators, Sheriffs, and Collectors of Taxes, County Court Clerks, Inspectors of Tobacco at public warehouses, Collectors of Militia Divisions, and all such as have had monies advanced them on account, that Judgments will be moved for at the next General Court against such of them as shall fail to settle and account for the same by that time. The County Court Clerks are desired to send to this Office copies of the sheriffs and inspectors bonds. The Commissioners of the Tax are also desired to make their returns agreeable to law, specifying the amount of the several taxable articles in columns, and that they in future make mention of the number of days they and their clerks severally have attended and been employed, and not make the allowance in gross, as heretofore has been the case in some counties, thereby preventing us from judging of the equity of such allowance; and also that they, the Commissioners, call on all persons indebted to the commonwealth for quitrents collected under the former government, to settle and make up their accounts, and to return copies of each settlement to this office.

INDIAN KING TAVERN and INN, BALTIMORE-TOWN.

THE subscriber most respectfully acquaints his friends and the public, that he hath removed into that large and commodious new house, near the upper end of Market-Street, which was erected expressly for the purpose of a tavern and inn, by the late Capt. Lums, where he proposes, under favour of a generous public, to keep a genteel house of entertainment for travellers and others, who may rely on meeting with good fare, and the civillest treatment, as it will be his uniform endeavour to please all who shall favour him with their custom. He is determined to be constantly furnished with the best of liquors and provisions, as well as every requisite suitable for his design. The House is extremely well calculated for the purpose intended, it having many neat apartments for the accommodation of such who wish for privacy and retirement, and a spacious room for the reception of large companies, who may have occasion to meet on business or recreation. His stables, which he is determined to pay the utmost attention to, can receive with convenience upwards of sixty horses, and are every way equal to the best on the continent. He hath also a spacious and safe yard for carriages. Good hay and grain are provided, and an excellent hostler is in constant attendance. As the propriety of appropriating this House to the purposes above mentioned has been frequently suggested as a measure which would prove beneficial to the public, and advantageous to the undertaker, under that idea the subscriber has ventured, at a great expense, to take and furnish it, not doubting but he shall meet with encouragement from the public adequate to his persevering exertions to serve them.

WILLIAM PASTER.

RUN away from the subscriber last Sunday night, a young mulatto wench named Suky. Her dress when she went away was white Virginia cloth, a linen bonnet made in the fashion; she has a large bushy head of hair, her upper fore teeth much decayed, and some of them out, which causes her to lisp, shows her teeth when laughing, and is very brazen and impertinent. She can wash, iron, and cook. I expect she will make to some town or public place, and may attempt to pass for a free wench. Whoever delivers the said wench to me in New-castle, shall receive a reward of one hundred pounds if taken fifty miles from this place, and in proportion for a greater or lesser distance.
